¹Actual control is derived from explicit authority over the account and its assets or shares or capital or profits. For example, the named accountholder or a signatory with authority to direct Citi with respect to the accountholder and the accountholder's assets at his or her discretion possesses actual control¹. "Control" shall also include the right to appoint majority of the directors or to control the management or policy decisions including by virtue of their shareholding or management rights or shareholders agreements or voting agreements.

²Effective control may be derived from a level of ownership in the account assets or accountholder, or a role that allows an individual to exercise control with respect to the accountholder without a formal mandate. The determination that a particular individual has either actual or effective control, and therefore, qualifies as a UBO, is based on the individual's responsibilities with respect to the accountholder, the level of authority and influence over the accountholder, and/or the vested ownership in the accountholder or the accountholder's assets, as follows:

- (a) Roles that establish actual control through a formal mandate of authority over the accountholder (e.g., executive management roles such as CEO, individuals designated with legal authority)
- (b) Roles that may carry no formal mandate of authority but confer effective control through authority over a significant portion of the assets or shares or capital or profits of the accountholder (e.g., owners at 5% of banks with offshore banking license, all beneficial owners of Wealth Holding Vehicles and 10% for all entity clients)
- (c) Roles that carry no formal mandate of authority over or entitlement to the assets of an account or accountholder entity, but may still permit the exercise of effective control through influence and/or other indirect means (e.g., grantor/ Author/Trustees of the Trust etc.)

We have also enclosed the valid 'proof of identity' and 'proof of addresses' of the aforementioned UBOs. (Identity/address proof need to be submitted only for UBO's identified based on the % ownership threshold.

Please note: We currently do not offer Account Opening where a UBO is a resident of the U.S. State of California. If you have any queries, please contact the hotline +1-833-971-1191 (United States) for more details.
